Step into a dynamic day of learning and connection with urban foresters, community partners, certification bodies, and leaders from the first SFI-certified urban forests. This focused Urban Forestry Program at the 2026 SFI Annual Conference brings together leaders from across the sector to advance a shared understanding of sustainable urban forest management for healthier and more resilient communities.

Through real-world case studies, networking opportunities, and a facilitated workshop, participants will explore how the SFI Urban and Community Forest Sustainability Standard is being applied in practice to protect biodiversity, strengthen urban and community forests, and foster sustained community engagement.
