

BUILD RESPONSIBLY: SOURCE FOREST PRODUCTS CERTIFIED TO THE SFI STANDARD

SFI-CERTIFIED WOOD PROVIDES BETTER BUILDING SOLUTIONS

Wood's inherent properties—as a sustainable, natural, healthy, and renewable resource that stores carbon—make it an excellent choice for construction. Using wood certified to SFI increases environmental benefits, because the forest where the wood was sourced was managed to address critical global sustainability issues such as storing carbon to mitigate climate change, conserving water quality, and ensuring a diversity of species.

Architects and builders choose wood because it looks great, has numerous environmental characteristics – including renewability – and is easy to work with.

More and more buyers – including governments, businesses and individuals – are asking for wood products from responsible sources. Products certified to SFI are recognized by many leading green building rating programs, such as these, around the world:
